Gov't expects OFW inflows to support currency

By Maria C. Sanchez

MANILA, Sept. 15 (AP) — The Philippine government expects a surge in remittances from overseas Filipino workers to help support the peso, which has been under pressure to fall below 50 to the dollar.

The Department of Finance said it expects remittance inflows to reach $1.1 billion in the first six months of 2000, up from $600 million in the same period last year.

The peso has fallen from 45 to the dollar in early 1999 to 48.50 in late 1999, and is currently trading at 49.50.

The government has been buying US dollars in the foreign exchange market to support the peso, but it has been reluctant to do so aggressively because of the risk of a sharp decline in the value of the peso.

The government has also been raising interest rates to attract foreign capital, but this has also helped to support the peso.

The government is also looking for other ways to support the peso, such as by increasing the amount of foreign aid it receives.

BSP seen cutting policy rates

By the staff of the Hong Kong Free Press

THE HONG KONG MONETARY AUTHORITY (HMA) IS EXPECTED TO CUT ITS POLICY RATE IN THE NEAR FUTURE, AS THE BANK OF CHINA IN BEIJING HAS DONE SO.

The HMA has been keeping its policy rate at 5 per cent for some time, but market analysts believe that it will be lowered to 4.5 per cent. This move is seen as a response to the recent cut in the policy rate by the People's Bank of China.

The cut in the policy rate is expected to lead to a depreciation of the Hong Kong dollar against the Chinese yuan, which could boost exports and investment in the local economy. However, it could also lead to inflationary pressures, which the HMA will need to monitor closely.

ATR & P cuts share price to draw investors

By the staff of the Hong Kong Free Press

The ATR has reduced its share price from 1.20 to 1.00, while the P has cut its share price from 1.50 to 1.20. These moves are seen as an attempt to attract new investors and improve the companies' financial positions.

The ATR is a major player in the air cargo market, while the P is a leading cement producer in Hong Kong. Both companies have been facing challenges in recent years, and these price cuts are part of their strategy to turn things around.

Tel Resources gets loan reprieve

By the staff of the Hong Kong Free Press

TEL RESOURCES HAS BEEN GRANTED A LOAN REPRIEVE BY THE HONG KONG MONETARY AUTHORITY (HMA).

The HMA has agreed to extend the maturity date of a loan taken out by Tel Resources, which is a subsidiary of the telecommunications giant, PCCW. This move is seen as a relief for the company, which has been struggling with its debt obligations.

Tel Resources has been facing difficulties in raising new capital, and the loan reprieve is expected to help it to manage its cash flow and meet its other financial commitments.

Economic growth seen slowing

By the staff of the Hong Kong Free Press

ECONOMIC GROWTH IN HONG KONG IS EXPECTED TO SLOW DOWN IN THE NEAR FUTURE, AS A RESULT OF THE CUT IN THE POLICY RATE.

The HMA has indicated that the cut in the policy rate is likely to lead to a depreciation of the Hong Kong dollar, which could boost exports and investment. However, it could also lead to inflationary pressures, which the HMA will need to monitor closely.

The slowing of economic growth is seen as a challenge for the local economy, which has been relying on strong growth in recent years. The HMA will need to take steps to manage the inflationary pressures and ensure that the economy remains stable.
